Tim: Hmm, oh wait hey, listen to this- Tokyo Disney land and Disney Sea will raise the prices of their one day passports on May first, operator Oriental Land Co. has said. The increase will be the first for the theme parks since April 2016, except for tax increase-related hikes, and is due to “improvement of the theme parks’ value” following the opening of new attractions and enhanced availability of the smartphone app, the company said January 30th. The price of a one day passport for adults aged 18 or older will be raised to 8200 yen from 7500, for each park. The price of guests age 12 to 17 will go up 400 yen to 6900, while that for children aged 4 to 11 will stay at 4900 yen… So it’s going to be even more expensive, but I guess it’s irrelevant because Disney Land and Disney Sea are closed right now, and might be for the foreseeable future.

Tomohiro: Yeah, ok, Yeah, I guess so.

Tim: Hey, how’s it going, man?

Bina: Oh hey Tim. How are you doing?

Tim: Yeah not too bad, thank you. Just having lunch?

Bina: Yeah. I’m actually having salad today.

Tim: Oh good, nice and healthy.

Bina: Yeah.

Tomohiro: Hey guys, is it cool if I join you?

Tim: Yeah, sure. What have you got there?

Tomohiro: I’ve got some spaghetti.

Tim: Yeah… it looks pretty good.

Tomohiro: Yeah it does.

Bina: It smells good too. Do you think maybe I can have some of that?

Tomohiro: Um, I’m quite hungry now, so I might need all of this.

Bina: Are you sure? That’s a lot of pasta.

Tomohiro: Yeah, if there’s any left I can save you some, but, uh…

Bina: Ok, thanks…
