

Dictation Contest (PRJr 初級) No. 59

Hello guys this is Bina and today we will read Tigers at Twilight. Are you ready?

Eight year old Jack and his seven year old sister Annie climbed into the tree house. They found that it was filled with books. Jack and Annie soon discovered that the treehouse was magic. It could take them to the places in the books. All they had to do was point to a picture and wish to go there.

See you next time everybody!

Dictation Contest (PR1 中級) No. 59

Hello everyone. This is Bina and for today's dictation we will be reading, "Abaddon's Gate". Are you ready?

Before she knew she was going to do it, Anna had jumped to her feet and run out of her tent. They would be going to the elevator that ran up the side of the drum and connected with the passengers to the command decks and engineering. They would be going to the bridge, men like Cortez and Ashford, men who wanted to be in charge. They would be on the bridge. She ran toward the elevator as fast as her legs would carry her.

Great job everyone, see you next time.

Dictation Contest (PR2 上級) No. 59

Hello, everyone! For today's PR 2 dictation contest, we are gonna be reading from the Waseda University entrance exam. Are you ready?

When you hear the word "peace", what is the first image that comes to mind? For many people, it is probably an image of war, or of the nuclear bomb. As the title of Tolstoy's famous novel War and Peace suggests, two concepts are inseparable in many spheres. While this may be the dominant image, it is actually a very limited definition of peace. In research on peace studies, the definition of peace as the absence of conflict is referred to as negative peace. The much wider definition of peace is positive peace.

Good job everyone. See you next time.
