

Dictation Contest (PRJr, 初級) No. 63

Oh! Hi, guys!

I'm just drawing a picture. Do you like to draw pictures?

I loved drawing pictures when I was young – especially pictures of dinosaurs, or animals, or my favourite toys and television characters.

What do you like to draw pictures of?

Are you good at drawing?

Today, I'm drawing a picture of a cat, and I think it's pretty good.

...

I'm finished!

What do you think? Pretty good, right?

Okay, see you, guys!

Dictation Contest (PR1, 中級) No. 63

Hello, everyone!

This is the PR1 dictation video. I will be continuing from my previous video and reading to you a little bit from Harry Potter.

The first few carriages were already packed with students, some hanging out of the window to talk to their families, some fighting over seats. Harry pushed his trolley off down the platform in search of an empty seat. He passed a round-faced boy who was saying, 'Gran, I've lost my toad again.' 'Oh, Neville,' he heard the old woman sigh.

Okay, I will stop it there. What did you guys think? Uh, anyways, I will see you guys in another video.

See you!

Hey, guys! How's it going?

Hope you're all still staying home and staying safe, where possible.

Now, I know a lot of you are very interested in wildlife, and one of my favourite animals is the tiger. I think it's one of the most beautiful but dangerous creatures in the world. And here is a pretty interesting story about one, so listen to this:

A tiger blamed for killing three people will spend the rest of its life in captivity, Indian officials said, June 7th, saying the big cat was "too dangerous" to be allowed to roam free. "We gave it several chances to re-wild but it habitually went into human habitations," said the chief wildlife warden of Madhya Pradesh state. Officials said it repeatedly strayed and hunted near human settlements, attacking cattle and endangering humans, and so the only option left was to put it in captivity to ensure both the tiger and humans are safe.

Oh, I see. So, it was a dangerous animal, but instead of killing it, they just sent it to a zoo. Hmm, living in captivity isn't as good as living in the wild, but I guess it's still better than being dead. What do you think? Pretty interesting, right?

OK, guys. So, have a try on that one and I'll see you soon. Bye.
