

Dictation Contest (PRJr, 初級) No. 635

Hello, everyone! Welcome back to PR Junior.

This is part twenty-four of the story about the Litter King. Let's begin!

The airplane took off. Soon it was flying over the countryside.

Charlie held on tight. Below him he could see trees and fields. He could see rivers and houses.

He could see forests and green hills.

"The countryside looks so pretty," he thought.

That is all for today. Come back next time to hear the rest of the story! Bye-bye!

Dictation Contest (PR 1, 中級) No. 635

Hi everyone. Welcome back to PR1!

This is the next part of "I Am a Cat." Let's get started.

And this place wasn't dark like last one. The light was so bright, in fact, that it was difficult to keep my eyes open. What in the world was happening? I tried to move forward, and the pain was shocking. Poor me, torn from my bed of leaves and thrown into a field of bamboo grass. It was all I could do to pull myself out of that field. In front of me was a small lake. I sat down and wondered what to do. No very good ideas came. At one point I thought that if I cried, the student might return.

What will the cat do? Let's find out next time. That's all for today. Good bye!

Dictation Contest (PR2 上級) No. 635

Hello everyone. Welcome back to PR 2.

Today we are going to cover some daily conversations. Let's begin.

Seung: Hey, Yerin. You took physics 101 already, right?

Yerin: Yeah, last semester, with Professor Taylor.

Seung: What did you think of her? 'Cause I have to take it next semester and I am trying to figure out who would be the best instructor.

Yerin: I would not recommend her. Her lectures were always straying from the topic. Half the time I had no idea what she was talking about. In addition, the final exam was difficult as well.

Seung: Hmm. Can you recommend someone else?

Yerin: Try Professor Tina. Everybody says she is much better. My friend took her class and she said she really enjoyed it. She told me that even though she has mini tests every time, but her lectures are interesting.

Seung: Really? I did not know that. Thanks for letting me know. I will consider your advice. By the way, are you going to apply for any winter internship programs?

Yerin: Hmm, I was thinking about applying for a short-term internship with Google, but I heard that they only hire two people a year.

Seung: Oh really? I hope you get in! Doing an internship at Google will really look good in your resume.

That is all for today. See you again next time!